Forward

With increasing emphasis being placed on internationalism, it is imperative that we, as future world leaders, recognize the importance of understanding many nations. As nationalistic tendencies vanish, we must be ready to help unify and strengthen the world through co-operative, sincere peace efforts. We as a class realize our future responsibility to achieve world unification and feel we have begun to understand and appreciate other cultures by choosing a collection of interesting representative scenes to illustrate our yearbook.

Dedication

Mr. Leslie Griffiths, as adviser to the Class of 1967, has been an understanding friend. During the past two years, his interest in us has been immeasurable. By working closely with our class officers and the chairmen of various class functions, Mr. Griffiths has demonstrated clearly his devotion to the seniors. His ability to accept us as young adults and to communicate with us on this basis has made him a natural choice as adviser.

We, the Class of 1967, feel we can never begin sufficiently to repay Mr. Griffiths' many kind endeavors in our behalf. By dedicating our yearbook to Mr. Griffiths, we have tried to demonstrate our gratitude and warm feeling for him.

Mr. Goode confers with Mr. McDonough

To the Class of 1967:

You cannot predict with certainty what life holds in store for you in the way of changes and challenges. You do not know what the future may demand of you in the way of skill and understanding. Nor do you know what the future may offer in the way of opportunity for fulfillment and enjoyment.

Life is a long, rough road and the prizes go to those with tenacity, durability, resiliency and the capacity to pick themselves up after they have taken a fall. You know now that you have the ability. Have faith in your long-term capacity to use this ability constructively. Do not let that faith be shaken by momentary setbacks.

We here at Fitchburg High School have tried to prepare you to face this reality; now it is up to you to explore the various fields in which you might exercise your skill and judgment.

You should continue developing the capacity of your mind to reach out, to create, to aspire, to be aware, to dream, to love and to conceive a moral order.

You are the only ones who can put such a pattern together—your life. Let it be a life that has dignity and meaning.

As you keep these thoughts in mind, may I extend my best wishes for personal success and happiness to each and every one of you.

Sincerely yours,

Stanley A. Goode

Business Department

In our competitive society there are many rewarding positions opened to those trained in the various business sciences. Our Business Department, headed by Miss Madeline M. Donovan, seeks to prepare its students for worthwhile careers in the secretarial and clerical fields.

Under the Part-Time Program of the department students attend classes for one week, while on alternate weeks they are employed in secretarial work in the School Department or in various school offices. In this way a student gains actual business experience. The Business Office further assists students by finding them employment outside school, as well as helping many select business and secretarial schools where they can further their education.

Our Business Department offers its students the proper preparation and guidance necessary for employment in the field of business.

English Department

The English Department, under the direction of Miss Lillian M. Taylor, seeks to aid the student in speaking, writing, and appreciating good English.

In addition to the regular English classes in the College Preparatory Course, there are honors divisions for outstanding seniors, juniors, and sophomores; and for the first time this year there is an Advanced Placement Program in English. In addition to the regular English classes in the Business and General Course curricula there are now three courses in Basic English for juniors, sophomores, and freshmen.

In these courses the student is also introduced to English literature—a literature that is unequalled in variety, quantity, and general excellence. Through this study and interpretation of literature, the student is encouraged to study and to think logically and critically, to express himself creatively, and to develop an appreciation for his own literature. Thus, he becomes more aware of his own cultural heritage and begins to have a better understanding of man.

Foreign Language Department

John C. Baimas
Department Head

Our Foreign Language Department, under the guidance of its new Department Head, Mr. John C. Baimas, helps make us aware of our ever-changing world by teaching us the importance of internationalism. To achieve this understanding, we must not only learn the languages of other peoples, but also learn of their customs, their geography, and their history.

For this reason, well-rounded programs are available to the students in French, Spanish, Italian and German. French is taught in a four-year program while Spanish, Italian, and German are offered in three-year programs.

To provide the student with a classical background by acquainting him with man's heritage, and to give him a strong foundation for future language study, Latin is offered in a four-year program. This year the Latin course has been expanded with an Advanced Placement Program for its exceptional students.

Mathematics Department

Nicholas G. Ruberti,
Department Head

From ancient time, a knowledge of mathematics has been established as a basic and necessary aspect of education. When, however, one considers the complex technical advancement of our modern age, mathematics gains new importance. Science and industry depend on large numbers of highly skilled technicians, and in order to supply this urgent need, our schools must graduate students skilled in both practical and theoretical mathematics.

To fulfill such needs, our Mathematics Department, under the guidance of Mr. Nicholas G. Ruberti, supplies students with an applicable and well-rounded background in the important field of mathematics by offering a curriculum of two years of algebra, one year of advanced algebra, plane geometry, and courses in basic and modern mathematics.

Guidance Department

The demands placed upon high school students to attend college or business schools and to choose suitable vocations necessitate a high quality of guidance and counselling. This quality is found in the Guidance Department at Fitchburg High School. Through numerous facilities, in the form of tests, catalogues, brochures, and counselling sessions, students may select the courses of study suitable for their present needs and career aspirations. Our guidance personnel, under the direction of Mr. Reginald Quinn, assist the large number of students in becoming well-equipped, well-trained, and useful citizens.

Physical Education Department

Physical education is an integral part of the curriculum of any school. Since the mind functions best in a well-disciplined body, a rigid program of calisthenics and sports develops the student physically and prepares him for a more complete, vigorous life.

At Fitchburg High School we follow a program designed to aid not only the athletic youth but also the student who may not have the skill and agility of an athlete. By encouraging each student to develop to his full potential, our gym instructors help to emphasize the importance of physical, as well as scholastic, advancement.

The Science Program, directed by Mr. Leslie Griffiths, challenges the students with theories and principles of the great ancient and modern scientists. Besides the basic scientific information available to all students, more advanced and comprehensive study is offered to those students planning careers in the field of science. The program is designed to provide each student with more than a mere working knowledge of the subject; it attempts to instill an enthusiasm for and an appreciation of the physical universe and its laws.

Social Science Department

The Social Science Department, under the direction of Mr. John Dillon, offers courses in United States History, Ancient History, World History, Government, and Sociology. In these courses the student learns about the development of his nation, the values of society, and the responsibilities of citizenship. Through the study of history, it is hoped that the student will develop an understanding and an appreciation for other cultures, as well as his own. A study of the history and the government of the United States is essential for the high school student today, for it is he who will choose the leaders of tomorrow and shape our governmental policies.

The aim of the Vocational High School is to prepare students in a particular field of work by supplying technical knowledge and developing necessary skills. Occupational training is an important part of the total program. The students attend classes one week and on the alternate week they attend the different shops including auto mechanic, carpentry, electrical, and machine. Those who complete the Vocational Course receive a diploma from Fitchburg High School and a trade certificate which qualifies them to begin employment immediately after graduation. In Memoriam

Mr. Franklin M. Angevine had long dreamt of a Regional Vocational School where local boys could learn various jobs skillfully and professionally. Shortly after his hoped-for idea of such a school was realized and was in the process of being carried out, he died. Indeed, this brought sorrow to everyone in the community and a great loss to the field of education. A conscientious and hardworking man, Mr. Angevine will be sincerely missed by those who knew him and worked with him.

Industrial Arts Department

Under the supervision of Mr. Russell Cook, the industrial arts program specializes in training students in technical and industrial fields. One purpose of this department is to prepare skilled workers for society, as well as to enable students to understand and to deal intelligently with their industrial environment. These goals are sought through a system of study, planning, and manual experience in the work shops. Among the courses are classes in woodworking, arts and crafts, graphic arts, and mechanical drawing.

We, the staff of the 1967 Boulder, have attempted to depict in these few pages our four years of high school life. In this endeavor, we believe we have successfully captured some of the vigor, the warmth, and the spirit of our class.

Our Boulder is a tangible reminder of our student years at Fitchburg High School—a reminder of the various scholastic, social, and athletic activities we, as a class, have shared. This book records for us and for all future classes the accomplishments of the Class of 1967.

ORGANIZATIONS

Booster Club

The enthusiasm, energy, and school spirit of Fitchburg High School are embodied largely in one organization—the Booster Club. Its members inspire and unify the student body at various athletic events and with pre-game publicity, instill students with school pride and school interest.

The club members work diligently making posters, planning skits, and organizing rallies. Through the rallies in particular, students lose their status as spectators and become active participants in the event. The Thanksgiving Rally, the single most important activity of the Club, is the prime example of the hard work and cooperation necessary to make this organization a success. Booster Club membership, is always large and reflects the zeal and interest of its members for Fitchburg High School.

Seated: E. Bouchard, Secretary; J. Crockford, Vice-President. Standing: R. Lavoie, President; R. Legere, Treasurer.

Student Council

The Student Council functions as a representative body of nine seniors, six juniors, four sophomores, and one vocational student. Elected each year by the student body, the council acts as an important link between the students and the faculty. All fund drives as well as all campaigns and elections are sponsored by the council. Special activities and school functions are publicized and supervised by the Student Council and it is the duty of council members to see that school disciplinary regulations are obeyed. The prime concern is the promotion of school spirit, school pride, and a respectful attitude toward fellow students and the faculty of Fitchburg High School.

Dramatic Club

Who can describe the excitement, the challenge, the fantastic tension of working together to produce a play? Class challenging class—each trying to bring its performance to a peak of excellence that will win the award for the best competitive play. But when the award is won, the class becomes a school—competing for the state championship. This is what the Dramatic Club, under the supervision of Miss Joan Buffinton, offers—an opportunity for every student to express himself in drama whether it is in building a set, selling a ticket, making a costume, or playing a part. It is the quality of this group work—this interdependence—that makes the play, wins the audience.

Chemistry Club

The Chemistry Club, organized in October 1965, has become a successful organization under the supervision of Mr. Sven Schedin. The club gives students an opportunity to participate in field trips, to attend lectures, and to view films relating to their scientific studies. The club's main concern is to give students a chance to learn by individual experimentation. Through the scientific ability and enthusiasm of the students, the Chemistry Club has become a worthwhile addition to our extra-curricular activities.

Senior Literary Club

The Senior Literary Club, under the direction of Miss Lillian M. Taylor, strives, through lectures by guest speakers, to increase its members' awareness of the world's great literature. Recently there has been an emphasis on greater membership participation in the form of student programs. Pupils are chosen for membership on the basis of their proficiency in English and are given the opportunity to become better acquainted with the works of outstanding authors.

Sponsored by the Senior Literary Club, a Sophomore Reading Club provides guidance to sophomore students in the selection of reading material.

French Club

The French program offers "le cercle francais" or French Club for French honor students. Supervised by Mrs. Yvette Malenfant, the meetings are conducted entirely in French, thus giving each student an opportunity to participate in French conversation. The Club's main concern is to acquaint the student with the culture and language of France by gaining an appreciation of "la vie francaise". In addition to the regular meetings, "le cercle francais" affords students an opportunity to attend French plays and other related cultural activities.

D.E.C.A.

The Distributive Education Club of America is a program of youth activity designed to train students for careers in marketing and distribution. The clubs supplement the Distributive Education course by teaching techniques of marketing, merchandising, and management and by promoting understanding, capability, and citizenship responsibility in our economic system of competition and private enterprise. Our D.E.C.A. chapter is an organization which aids in the development of individual talent and leadership abilities and develops in the students a respect for distributive education.

“Red and Gray”

The “Red and Gray”, the combined literary magazine and newspaper of Fitchburg High School, offers students an opportunity to demonstrate their abilities in creative and expository writing. Short stories, poems, articles concern school events, sports, and scholastic achievement, and special features are all included in the magazine.

Not merely an entertaining project, the “Red and Gray” is an educational experience, for the staff spends many hours compiling material and learning how to publish a magazine. Under the supervision of Miss Margaret Mallahy, Miss Charlotte Ruberti, and Mr. Richard Hodges, the “Red and Gray” staff and editors work to produce a magazine of quality and good taste.

Miss Mullahy and Mr. Hodges discuss layout with Red and Gray editors, Joel Goldfarb and Joann Finch.

Music Department

Our Music Department provides the musically inclined student with a number of interesting activities. Supervised by Mr. Carlton R. Thorne, the Music Department has established a well-earned reputation for excellence.

The Marching Band, acknowledged as one of the best bands in the area, represents Fitchburg High School during the football season and in many parades. The band also provides the music for school assemblies and various school performances. During the year, the band, the chorus, the orchestra, and the Dance Band perform in the Christmas and the Spring Concerts—the two musical highlights of the school year.

The Music Department offers courses in Music Theory for the serious student of music and provides an opportunity for talented students to audition for the District and the All-State music groups.

Football

A crucial moment.

The Fitchburgh High football team worked hard this year and was rewarded with a successful season. At the outset of the season Coach Landon and his assistants, Mr. Conway and Mr. Tower, were hopeful but apprehensive. They had many promising underclassmen, but few experienced seniors. Co-captains Scott Thomas and Kenny Bedard and N.C.M.C. all-star John Monaghan, proved to be steady players and good leaders while the underclassmen learned quickly and helped greatly in producing a winning team. Other senior starters were Jim Parisi, Charley Forcier, and Mike Fiorentino who gave valuable assistance, while Dick Hurley, Paul Barnicle and Den Gagne provided needed depth.

Co-captains Scott Thomas (19) and Ken Bedard (16) meet with opponents for toss of coin.

CROSS COUNTRY

The cross country team completed another successful season, ending with a record of 5 wins and 1 loss in dual meets. After losing the opening meet to Keene, the New Hampshire state champions, the team went on to win its 5 remaining meets, including contests with intra-city foe Notre Dame and rival Leominster.

The team was also very successful in invitational meets and the State Meet. The F.H.S. harriers competed in the Knights of Columbus Race in Worcester, winning 16 trophies and placing 3 runners, Co-Captain Bob Legere, Paul DiPerri, and Kevin Wiley, among the top ten. The team also won the Wachusett Invitational and the Lunenburg Invitational meets. Fitchburg finished the season by placing third in the State Meet in Boston, and again Legere and Wiley were among the first ten runners.

Under the mentorship of Coaches Koutonen and Gastonguay, the F. H. S. cross country men have again proven themselves worthy of their reputation as fine runners.

BASKETBALL

The Fitchburg High basketball team finished third in the N.C.M.C., although the overall record was not good. One of the reasons for the poor record was the caliber of the teams the F.H.S. hoopsters played outside the conference. The teams, including Natick, Boston Tech, and Nashua, had size and experience and were pre-season choices for their conference championships. The experience our boys gained by playing such formidable opponents was rewarding, for the Red and Gray then found the conference teams much easier to defeat.

During pre-season practice Coach Oliva and his new assistant, Mr. James Benedict, were disappointed with the lack of height on the club, but were very satisfied with the spirit, enthusiasm and co-operation of the players.

SWIMMING

Under the direction of Coach Robert Christie, the Fitchburg High swim team, in its first meet, scored forty-eight points to overcome a powerful Boston English team by one point. Although trailing by nine points halfway through the meet, the F. H. S. squad fought back to win in the final event, the four hundred yard relay.

In the second meet, our team was defeated by the exceptionally fine group of swim team alumni. Even though they lost the competition the F. H. S. Mermen displayed spirit, determination and ability.

Fitchburg High suffered another disappointing loss in the season's third contest. Our competent swimmers were definitely superior to those of Leominster, but Fitchburg lost the meet through disqualifications.

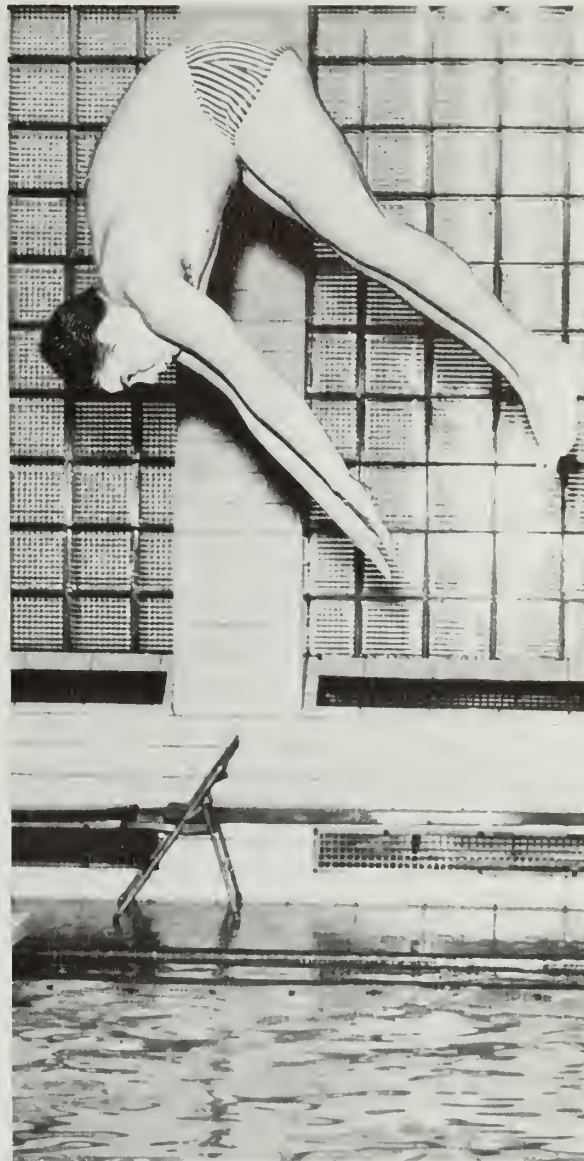

Outstanding seniors on the squad were Barry Cringan, Brian Donnelly, Jim Driscoll, Joel Goldfarb, Anti Maki, David Rocker and Vaughn Stewart.

HOCKEY

The hockey team, coached by Mr. John Conway, chalked up its first win this season after three starts. This year's team, comprised mostly of underclassmen, includes seniors Daniel McCarthy, David Bean, and James Krull. One of the outstanding players on the squad was a junior, Rick Bennett, who led the team in goals. Coach Conway was very optimistic about his team's progress and felt that the squad, with Jeff Dedo as net tender, showed great improvement.

In addition to the three captains, Seniors Don Skehan and Rick Melder, and Juniors Mike Delibertis and Kevin Wiley were consistent scorers. The F.H.S. board pounders also competed in the B.A.A. meet in Boston, where DiPerri placed third in the mile and Legere came in fifth in the 1000 yard run.

ACTIVITIES

The doors open to a memorable evening.

Chaperones look on, perhaps recalling the days of their own Junior Prom.

Bud Forrest and orchestra.

JUNIOR PROM

"Al Di La" took us from everyday living to a majestic, serene Roman garden. Tall white pillars entwined with lush green ivy enhanced the dignity and beauty of the scene. Crepe paper flowers and painted trees seemed real in the soft, dim light, as we danced to the music of the Bud Forrest Orchestra. Another decoration was the attractive fountain, a single spray of water filling a pool upon which flowers floated. Certainly our junior promenade was an unforgettable and lovely evening for us all.

Junior Class officers and escorts lead Grand March.

They could have danced all night.

No, but you hum it and I'll strum it.

Let's Frug, girl!

Did you ever think that last dance would end?

And it is a grand March.

COMPETITIVE PLAYS

The class of 1967 has had a successful and exciting experience in dramatics. For three consecutive years our class has won the best actress award, and our senior play took all the top honors.

The sophomore year production, "Antic Spring", was a light-hearted comedy in which Marsha Gallo won the best actress award for her exuberant and girlish portrayal of Blossom. Rae Shepherd received the award in our junior play, "Two Crooks and a Lady", in her role as Mrs. Simmes-Vane, the shrewd, elderly paralytic. In "Andante", our senior play, Marylou Ledden was judged best actress for her thoughtful and touching interpretation of the role of Martha Lawrence.

"Andante" was our most important and most serious production. It concerns David Lawrence, a talented and emotional violinist who is involved in an automobile accident which severely injures his hand. Unable to continue his playing, he finds his existence meaningless and in despair attempts to commit suicide. Mark Therrien, who played Lawrence, won the best actor award for his sensitive portrayal of a man who must rebuild his life and dreams through his son's career.

To mention individuals who have excelled in acting is somewhat unfair, for a play is a group production involving more people than the actors alone. Without the excellent technical crew, publicity department, stage managers, makeup and scene design artists, and student and faculty help, the plays could never have been successful. Special credit is given Miss Joan Buffinton and Mrs. Virginia Gallant for their invaluable assistance and patience.

What do you mean you don't like mashed potato sandwiches?

Martha . . . make me a Bromo.

There's—there's no Easter Bunny?

Go on, see if I care!

What goes up must come down.

1, 2, 3, O'Leary, 4, 5, 6

Go, go, go, go . . .

And we snag the ball . . .

As the one hundred and first graduating class of Fitchburg High School, we look back on our high school days with a blend of joy and sorrow. There is the joy of remembering our tremendous victory as Juniors in the Relay Race; the joy of participating in our successful plays; the joy of attending our class dances such as Al Di La, our Junior Prom; the joy of meeting new people who have remained friends throughout high school. There is, also, the sorrow of knowing that these events can never happen again. All the wonderful times that we have had together have come to an end.

As we look to the future, we realize our roles as citizens of America. We face newer conflicts and greater problems, not only in the world, but also within ourselves.

As Class President, I sincerely hope that each of you achieves his ultimate goal in life. The determination, loyalty, and pride that you have shown in high school, will certainly benefit you in life. Today has decided your tomorrow.

Journalism means more than just the writing of a news story, it means more than captioning a picture or completing the editorial coverage. A journalistic publication like the Boulder must have a means to an end. Part of this means is its financial structure. Besides subscriptions, the Boulder relies upon the business firms in Fitchburg who have shown their confidence in us by their generous contributions. The Boulder salutes all its patrons and utters a fervent thank you!

1967 CLASS SONG

Words: Rae Shepherd
Music: Diana Poulos

1. A lone we stand to face a troubled world,

And follow dreams to reach "The New Frontier",

And we shall live and die to find some peace,

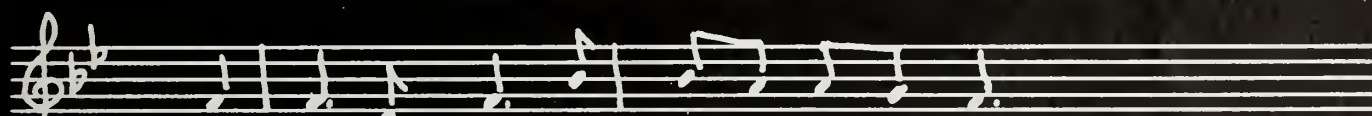

Some answer to an anxious cent'ry's fear.

Chorus O, Fitchburg High, we leave you, Our friend, our heart, our light,

The sculptor of our minds and souls, Our guide in freedom's fight.

2. But you have taught us faith, a love of man,

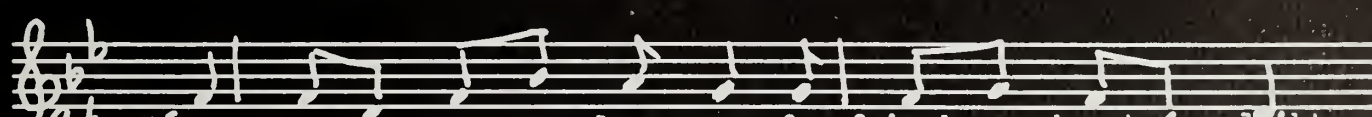

The joy of peace, the worth of truth and hope,

And with our knowledge and the strength of youth

We'll strive to give a troubled world some hope.

Chorus O, Fitchburg High, we leave you, Our friend, our heart, our light,

The sculptor or our minds and souls, Our guide in freedom's fight.
